

Ways to Increase Active Engagement

Methods	Description
Choral responding	All students answer a question in unison and response cards.
Response cards	Response cards are erasable boards on which all students write their answers to a question and then hold the boards up for the teacher to see.
Classwide peer tutoring (CWPT)	Students, in pairs, provide each other with instruction either using rapid responses (i.e., flash cards) or reading practice. They provide each other with immediate feedback. During CWPT, the classroom teacher circulates through the classroom and assists student pairs, as needed
Computer assisted instruction	Students work individually or in small groups using computer programs that provide material tailored to learner needs, frequent opportunities to respond, and immediate feedback.
Guided notes	Guided notes are partially completed outlines of content matter that the student completes during a lecture or when reading a chapter.
